How and when do we use your Personal Data?

The crucial importance of reinsurance is that an Insurer passes a part of his own obligations to a Reinsurer, or in other words, a Reinsurer accepts the risks ceded by an Insurer.

Reinsurance protection thus enables Insurers to assume the risks that otherwise could not, or would represent an excessive level of risk for them.

However, in order to assess the risk that needs to be reinsured and/or to fulfil the contractual obligations as a Reinsurer (e.g. in the case of a loss occurrence), it is necessary that an Insurer provides us with your personal data.

The Insurer is obliged to provide only that information that is necessary for the implementation of the reinsurance contract or only that information which is strictly necessary for the administration and the risk management.

In addition, your data may be processed for the purposes that are not directly related to the reinsurance contract, providing that they are used in compliance with any regulatory or supervisory requirements.

Legal Basis

In accordance with the General Data Protection Regulation, the Reinsurance Company is allowed to manage your personal data providing that both the Insurer and the Reinsurer pursue their own and/or legally defined purposes for the personal data processing. The legal requirements are specified in the applicable Insurance Act.

For implementing the insurance contract, the Insurer may transfer your personal data which are necessary for the fulfillment of reinsurance obligation to the Reinsurer for further processing, providing that the Insurer has previously asked you for your consent for the processing of personal data that you signed when signing the insurance contract/policy.

Categories of Personal Data

The following personal data may be required for the reinsurance purposes:

- Information specified in the insurance contract/policy;
- Information on insurance cases and information needed for the assessment of insurance coverage and the amount of compensation.

To whom do we transfer your Personal Data?

Your personal data may be transferred to an Insurer and/or other Reinsurer but only for the implementation of a reinsurance contract.

Within the legal obligations related to your personal data, the supervisory authorities and other authorized entities may also have access to your personal data providing that you have given a consent or they have a right to access under the law and/or have a legitimate interest in your personal data.

Data Transfer to Third Countries outside the EU/EEA

Transfer of your personal data to the third countries and/or countries outside the European Union, is possible if it is implemented in accordance with the terms and conditions laid down in the General Data Protection Regulation.

How long do we store your Personal Data?

The Insurer keeps your personal data that are processed in compliance with your consent until receiving your withdrawal of consent. The same applies to the processing of these data by the Reinsurer, to whom, with your consent, have been forwarded for the same purpose of processing. Other personal data obtained by the conclusion or implementation of the insurance contract or by virtue of the law shall be kept by the Insurer until the expiry of the statutory time limit.

Which rights do you have?

You can claim your legal rights related to the General Data Protection Regulation (e.g. the right to information, corrections, deletion, restriction of processing and data transferability) at our Data Protection Officer.

Right of Appeal

We would also like to remind that you have the right of appeal if you believe that the regulations governing the protection of personal data have been violated, and you can file a complaint to the Information Commissioner of the Republic of Slovenia, Dunajska cesta 22, 1000 Ljubljana (Article 77 of the General Data Protection Regulation).
